This site presents some results from an ongoing study of California's election costs conducted by the CACEO (California Association of Clerks and Election Officials) in partnership with Q2 Data & Research. The findings of this study can be explored in multiple ways. Reports and datasets are available in the About section, along with some background on the study itself. Below and on the Costs by Election pages you will find visualizations aimed at outlining the major contours of the dataset.

Because participation in the study varies between the different elections, you must first select which elections you would like to include in your dataset. This way we can ensure that you are seeing comparable data across elections by only including data from counties that reported for all selected
